Gambler Truman and Larry O'Brien, the latter weak and pale from his confinement in the New York Hospital, appeared in the Harlem Police Court at 3% A. M. vesterday. O'Brien was accompanied by his brother Steve, and his counsel, ex-Recorder Smith. Truman was represented by Howe & Hummel. O'Brien's clothes hung loosely on him, and there was an anxious look in his face, but Truman looked portly and well.

Policeman Nelson told Justice Andy White the circumstances under which he had found the two men on the night of March 14. "I was walking along Broadway." he said, "when I saw a large crowd at about Twenty-seventh street. I rushed up and fought my way through. I found O'Brien covered with blood and with a revolver in his hand following up and with a revolver in his hand following up Truman, I was informed afterward that O'Brien had shot Truman in self-defence after Truman had knifed O'Brien."

It may be remembered that according to the soutemporaneous accounts of this little private squabble. O'Brien first knocked Truman down with his cane and was then stabbed by him, and that after Policeman, Nelson had arrived and collared Truman O'Brien shot Truman lwice, and crossed the street to try and shoot him again.

"What have a south of the stable of the n sgain.

What have you to say?" asked Justice its of Truman.
Nothing, your Honor. I have no charge to And you?" said the Justice, pointing to Larry.
"I don't want to make any charge, either,"

"I don't want to make any charge, either," he replied weakly.
"Can you make a charge against these men?" continued the Justice, pointing this time to Policeman Neison.
"No, sir." replied Nelson. "All I knowds that Mr. Truman had a dirkknife in his possession when I arrested him."
Well, make a charge against him for that."
Truman was then held in $500 for trial on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, and O'Brien was discharged. J. E. Kelly, of Kelly & Bliss, bookmakers, became Truman's surety. There were very few persons in the court at the time, and the speed with which the case was disposed of was surprising. O'Brien got into a carriage with his brother and counsel and drove away. He returned to the New York Hospital. Truman took the elevated train down town.

HIRED WIVES AND CHILDREN. A Dodge to Induce Mobbed Persons Not to Appear Against the Thieves.

Henry W. Jenkins, a member of the Petroeum Exchange, who lives at 308 West Fortyfifth street, made up his mind to go to the country, and a week ago the family packed a lot of trunks and stored them in the basement. A lot of clothing was placed on a sofa near the trunks. On Monday night or Tuesday morning the basement window was opened, and tho clothing was stolen. Detective Riley arrested James Doyle and Thomas Sweeney and found the stolen articles in their possession. They were arraigned in the Yorkville Police Court were arraigned in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday. Doyle said he was a waiter and lived at 348 West Thirty-seventh street. Sweeneys said he had no occupation or residence. Doyle, who was stylishly dressed, insisted that he had found the clothing in an area, and that Sweeney took it for his children.

Mr. Jenkins told the Justice that he did not want to press the charge against Sweeney, because a woman with four little children had sailed on him and begged him not to. She said that he was her husband and sole support.

"You must press the charge," said the Justice. "This is getting to be an old dedge. Every thief and burgiar has some woman who will represent herself to be his wife and will her children for the occasion. It is time to put a stop to it. I think these fellows are hoop and stick thieves. It is a new dodge. They put in a hoop attached to a stick and pick up things in that way. You owe it to the people to make your affidavit against them."

Mr. Jenkins complied very unwillingly. The prisoners were held in $1,000 each for trial.

BY WORDS AND GESTURES.

Mrs. Bruen's Consent to the Operation of the In a suit by Mrs. Louisa J. Bruen against the Manhattan Railway Company for damages by the ele-wated road to her premises 118 West Third street, one of the defences was that she had acquiesced in the con

In response to an order requiring the defendant to furnish a bill of par-ticulars as to the datails of such acquiescence, a state-ment was furnished that it consisted of "words and defendants pleaded that the plaintiff has 'by a saries of acts manifested her acquiescence in the con-struction and operation of the elevated railway in Amity street. When called upon to say what those acts of ar-quiescence were, and at what times they were done, the defendants told the Court that those acts were words and gestures, but that they do not know what these words and gestures were, or when the plaintiff witered the words or made the gestures. Such practice as this cannot be tolerated. Either the defendants know that the plaintiff has by a series of acts manifested her acquiescence, or they do not. If they do not know it, their answer is sham. Another View.

HERR IS ANOTHER VIEW TO BE TAKEN OF THE WATCH QUESTION: WHEN A MAN HAS DECIDED TO BUY A BUIT OF CLOTHES HE USUALLY MAKES UP HIS MIND ABOUT THE AMOUNT HE CAN APPORD TO PAT. IF IT IS $11, HE HOPES TO GET AT LEAST A FAIR RETURN FOR HIS MONEY; BUT SUPPOSE OUT OF THIS SUM HE PAYS A TAILOR SAPROFIT AND INDIRECTLY 25 FOR A PEWTER WATCH, DOES HE ACCOMPLISH HIS OBJECT! INSTEAD OF RECRIVING AN HONEST VALUE FOR HIS $11, HE HAS REALLY GOT NO MORE THAN BAWORTH OF CLOTHES. WHEN HE DISCOVERS TOO LATE THAT HE HAS MADE A MISTAKE HE WILLS HAVE STILL MORE TO REGRET 1P HE FINDS THE HAVE STILL MORE TO REGRET IP HE FINDS THE CLOTHING HE HAS BOUGHT IS IN KEEPING WITH HIS FEWERR WATCH—ONE NO BETTER THAN THE OTHER; THE WATCH GROWING DULL AND LEADEN WITH AGE, AND THE CLOTHES FADING UNTIL THEY LOOK LIKE THE DRESS OF A CONSUMPTIVE TRANP. After taking the second bottle the inflammation began to sub-side. After the third bottle the inflammation disappeared, and sore spots dried up and turned white and scaly, and finally she brushed them off in an impalpable white powder resulting pure sait. She is now taking the sixth bottle, three tablespoonfuls four times daily. Every appearance of the disease has gone, and her flesh is becoming soft, white, and smooth again; and, what is more, her periodical heads, hes have disappeared, and she is now, at 53 years of age, enjoying the only good tealth she has known for upward of forty years. No wonder she declares with emphasis that every bottle of 8. 8. 8. is worth a thousand times its weight in gold.
